Fresenius improves credit facility terms

Fresenius considerably improved the terms of its 2008 syndicated credit agreement through an amendment supported by a vast majority of its lenders.

Within the scope of the amended agreement, the interest rate of the approximately US$1.2 billion term loan B (new term loan C) will be reduced by one-third. The new applicable interest rate will consist of the relevant money market rate (LIBOR and EURIBOR) subject to a 1.50% floor (currently 3.25%), plus a 3.00% margin (currently 3.50%). Based on current market rates, the amendment results in a 2.25% reduction compared with the current applicable interest rate. One-time expenses related to the amendment will impact Fresenius' results for the first quarter of 2010. Fresenius expects a positive contribution to Group earnings for the full fiscal year.

The syndicated credit agreement was concluded in August 2008 as part of the acquisition financing for APP Pharmaceuticals, Inc. Since the acquisition, both Fresenius' debt ratios and conditions on the debt markets have improved considerably. In light of these developments, Fresenius decided in February 2010 to approach its lenders to renegotiate terms of the agreement.
