Refinancing agreement reached at improved pricing

Fresenius successfully agreed the refinancing of the revolving facilities and Term Loan A of its 2008 syndicated credit agreement. The financing, structured as a Delayed Draw Syndicated Credit Agreement, was very well received in the bank market and substantially oversubscribed. Fresenius was therefore able to significantly increase the originally targeted transaction volume, and to improve the pricing.

The company entered into a €2.25 billion syndicated credit agreement, comprised of 5-year revolving facilities (US$300 million and €600 million) and a 5-year Term Loan A (US$1.0 billion and €650 million).

Proceeds will be used to refinance the company's existing revolving facilities and Term Loan A, both maturing in September 2013, as well as for general corporate purposes. The refinancing through a Delayed Draw Syndicated Credit Agreement allows Fresenius to take advantage of the currently favorable financing conditions in the bank market. Funding of the transaction is projected for June 2013.

Going forward, the refinancing of the credit agreement will considerably reduce Group interest expenses.
